

Sarah Bingol, Communications Manager, Neimand Collaborative

Leveraging her deep experience with financial services institutions and foundations, Sarah delivers innovative messaging, strategy and media materials to Neimand Collaborative's clients. She is a quick study, absorbing every ounce of information and diving straight to the heart of the issue. Sarah brings a wealth of traditional and digital media experience to the table, and plays a critical role in supporting clients such as MasterCard. Prior to joining Neimand Collaborative, Sarah spent two years at Weber Shandwick, where she helped develop digital strategy and content for the Bank of America Charitable Foundation. She earned a B.A. in American history and government from the University of Virginia in 2013.
